KaSa Mag98® for outstanding animal nutrition

Magnesium is an essential mineral that cannot be generated by the body. It therefore needs to be supplied on a daily basis as part of an animal's feed. It plays a central role for bone health and for various nerve functions. Particularly strained or nervous animals may greatly benefit from an increased supply of magnesium. A sufficient supply is also necessary for the metabolism, muscle activity and a well-functioning cardiovascular system. Sulphur is also needed for keratin formation, which is indispensable for healthy hair, skin and horn.

KaSa Mag98 contains magnesium in its sulphatic form and is therefore a valuable alternative to other magnesium compounds. Our product is gentler on the gastro-intestinal tract than magnesium chloride, and is more easily digested and utilised by the animal's body than is the oxydic form.

KaSa Mag98 is of natural origin and complies with the strict regulations of the EU food and feed law. It is manufactured in Germany, by means of state-of-the-art technology. All processes are in line with the highest standards concerning quality, hygiene, packaging, storage and traceability.

This is why feed manufacturers world-wide apply our high-quality magnesium sulphate KaSa Mag98 particularly for livestock.
